National University Hospital

The National University Hospital is a tertiary hospital and major referral centre with over 50 medical, surgical and dental specialties, offering a comprehensive suite of specialist care for adults, women and children. It is the only public hospital in Singapore to offer a paediatric kidney and liver transplant programme, in addition to kidney, liver and pancreas transplantation for adults.

The Hospital was opened on 24 June 1985 as Singapore's first restructured hospital. Each year, the Hospital attends to more than one million patients.

As an academic health institution, patient safety and good clinical outcomes are the focus of the Hospital. It plays a key role in the training of doctors, nurses, allied health and other healthcare professionals. Translational research is pivotal in the Hospital's three-pronged focus, and paves the way for new cures and treatment.

A member of the National University Health System, it is the principal teaching hospital of the NUS Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine and the NUS Faculty of Dentistry.

General Practitioner Liaison Centre (GPLC)

At the National University Hospital (NUH), we recognise the pivotal role general practitioners (GPs) and family physicians play in general healthcare provided within the community. As such, we believe that through closer partnerships, we can deliver more personalised, comprehensive, and efficient medical care for our mutual patients.

GPLC aims to facilitate collaboration among GPs, family physicians and our specialists. As a central coordinating point, we provide assistance in areas such as patient referrals, relevant clinical updates, continuing medical education (CME) training and general enquiries about our hospital's services.

National University Cancer Institute, Singapore (NCIS)

The National University Cancer Institute, Singapore (NCIS) is a national specialist centre for cancer under the National University Health System (NUHS). It is the only public cancer centre in Singapore treating both paediatric and adult cancers in one facility. While its main cancer services are anchored at the National University Hospital, NCIS continues to improve accessibility by providing cancer services through satellite clinics at partner sites like the Ng Teng Fong General Hospital, Alexandra Hospital, Jurong Medical Centre, and Tan Tock Seng Hospital. There are also programmes in place providing cancer services to patients at home and in the community.

The goal of the NCIS is to provide comprehensive yet personalised care for each and every patient incorporating cancer awareness, prevention, diagnosis, treatment, rehabilitation and palliative care. With the patient being the focus of all our programmes, sound medical knowledge and advanced technology are combined with the human touch of specialist doctors, nurses and other healthcare professionals in innovative ways to fight cancer.

Our award-winning clinician-scientists and clinician-investigators conduct translational research and clinical trials, providing patients with access to evidence-based cancer diagnostics, technology and therapies.

National University Heart Centre, Singapore (NUHCS)

The National University Health System (NUHS) set up the National University Heart Centre, Singapore (NUHCS) to meet the growing need of providing care to the increasing number of people suffering from heart disease.

We bring together cardiac specialists from various medical and surgical disciplines to provide a comprehensive and holistic approach to the treatment of heart problems.

Besides patient care, our experienced physicians and surgeons also train and nurture the next generation of healthcare providers, passing on their knowledge and skills. Patient care is backed by leading edge research by our research arm, the Cardiovascular Research Institute (CVRI). The aim is to advance our cardiovascular care and treatment.

To fulfil our mission in patient care, research and education, most of our clinicians take on multiple roles – as doctors and surgeons, as researchers, and as teachers in the Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine at the National University of Singapore (NUS). This has enabled us to keep abreast of the latest medical developments and advances, to bring new treatments and cures to our patients.

Anaesthesia

Our department was established in 1985. As a department, we have always committed ourselves to excel in clinical care, medical education and research.

Clinical Anaesthesia

The Department of Anaesthesia provides anaesthesia services for both paediatrics and adult patients in all routine and sub-specialised surgical and interventional procedures.

Perioperative Medicine

Life expectancy is increasing. With co-morbidities that accumulate with age, the volume of surgery is expected to rise. Moreover, patients presenting for surgery will have increasingly complex medical issues. Surgical procedures may be long and complex, and come with their attendant risks.

The Department of Anaesthesia provides perioperative care for our patients during this critical period in both outpatient and inpatient settings. The department is committed to minimising the risks for our patients and maximising the benefit from their surgeries.

Pain Management Unit

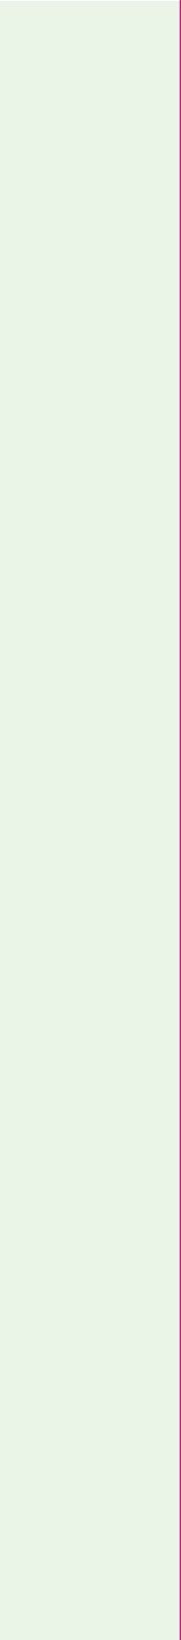

The Pain Management Unit of the Department of Anaesthesia comprises a team of doctors and nurses working in tandem with other interested and experienced allied health professionals to holistically manage the patients' pain symptoms and alleviate suffering.

The Acute Pain Service of the Pain Management Unit manages acute pain associated with surgery, trauma and acute medical conditions such as mucositis and sickle cell crisis. Using a wide range of treatment modalities from patient controlled analgesia, epidurals to peripheral perineural infusions to manage pain in our patients, the service provides 24-7 care during the most critical periods of their recovery.

The Chronic Pain Service of the Pain Management Unit employs a comprehensive spectrum of treatment modalities, often in a coordinated simultaneous fashion, to a wide variety of persistent painful conditions ranging from non-malignant conditions arising from the spine, nerves or visceral organs, to recalcitrant cancer pain in both adult and paediatric patients.

Emergency Medicine

The Emergency Medicine Department (EMD) is a team of doctors, nurses and allied staff, led by Emergency Medicine Specialists, that provides urgent and immediate care for all patients with an acute illness or injury. The time-sensitive, high quality care that we administer impacts the outcomes for our patients. We provide a crucial link between primary and tertiary care, and are a gateway to the National University Hospital.

In partnership with other hospitals and institutions within the National University Health System cluster and the Singapore Civil Defence Force (SCDF), we are one of the leading academic centres in the nation, and provide relevant training to all levels of learners.

Our ongoing research efforts allow us to keep up to date with the latest advances in medical science while creating new knowledge to the growing field of Emergency Medicine, which we share on a global scale. The implementation of this further allows us to deliver state-of-the-art care to our patients.

By incorporating innovation in medical technology and data science in our practice, we can address issues affecting entire populations and communities, and administer value-driven, cost-effective care to benefit these populations.

Patients are central to what we do. We subscribe to the values of safety and efficiency, and advocate equitable healthcare delivery.

Our 24-hour Emergency Medicine Department is staffed 24-7 by registered specialists working together with other in-house specialists to provide cost effective, efficient and quality treatment for all emergencies, major disasters and mass casualties.

Hand and Reconstructive Microsurgery

The Department of Hand and Reconstructive Microsurgery (HRM) provides round-the-clock microvascular service for upper limb and lower limb trauma. We have contributed significantly towards research and development of Hand Surgery and Reconstructive Microsurgery, and also trained many fellows from the region and beyond, who have since returned to start and advance these fields in their respective home countries. Many aspiring surgeons also continue to come and receive training at the Microsurgery Skills Laboratory. It is hoped that continued research and teaching will allow us to contribute to and shape the future of hand surgery in the world.

Laboratory Medicine

The NUH Department of Laboratory Medicine was established in May 1988. Over the years, the physical environment and process flow at our department have changed significantly. We have continuously developed and upgraded as new methodologies and technologies become available for clinical diagnostic use.

Our Core Laboratory boasts of a fully automated line system comprising sample manager, centrifuge/decapper attached to sophisticated tracking and robotics, automated analytical modules for chemistry, haematology, immunoassay and coagulation testing. Samples are generally untouched by human handling throughout the entire testing cycle.

Our department facilities also include a Microbiology Laboratory with a fully certified BSL-3 facility, a Haematology Laboratory, a Cytogenetics Laboratory, and a Molecular Diagnosis Centre. In addition, it has a fully operational outpatient testing facility at our specialist clinics area. This outpatient laboratory supports a comprehensive menu of chemistry, immunoassay and haematology testing.

The laboratories adhere to strict internal and external quality control checks and participate in External Quality Assurance (EQA) schemes to ensure the validity and reproducibility of our results. In keeping with our role as a College of American Pathologists (CAP)-accredited laboratory, we also offer the consultative services of experienced professionals in various disciplines, clinical scientists and medical technologists to assist clinicians in both diagnostic and research capacities by keeping abreast of medical and technological advances.

Tomorrow's Medicine Today. At the Department of Medicine, we are committed to ensuring that our patients receive the best possible care through our specialties: Advanced Internal Medicine, Geriatrics, Dermatology, Endocrinology, Gastroenterology & Hepatology, Infectious Diseases, Nephrology, Neurology, Respiratory and Critical Care Medicine, and Rheumatology.

With the patient at the centre of our focus, we seek to ensure that our care is kind, safe, value-driven, responsive and delivered holistically for the best possible outcome.

Using value-driven outcome initiatives, we continually track and improve on key quality outcome indices. Our integrative care programmes extend beyond the hospital to the home and community, facilitating a smoother return to a healthy and normal life.

Our pursuit of clinical care excellence is supported by our ethos, culture and drive to continually search for better treatment for our patients. Focusing on the key pillars of research excellence in metabolic disease, ageing, infectious disease, stroke, cancer, hepatitis, inflammatory-immune interface and health services outcomes, our clinician researchers lead multiple national research efforts to address healthcare challenges in Singapore and bring better care to our patients.

Training and mentoring is integral to our mission of providing better care. Targeted at both undergraduates and postgraduates enrolled in established programmes such as residency, senior residency, training fellowships and specialised courses, we aim to train medical professionals with the competence, compassion and creativity to take on Singapore's pressing healthcare problems.

Our drive? Providing the best care for our patients by keeping ourselves one step ahead – making tomorrow's medicine available today.

Neonatology

The Department of Neonatology provides a full range of specialist care for newborns, infants, toddlers and children.

Inpatient Services

We manage newborn intensive care and special care wards with equipment and specialised manpower for non-invasive respiratory support, conventional and high frequency oscillatory ventilation, and inhaled nitric oxide. We care for babies with congenital anomalies such as congenital heart diseases, gastro-intestinal malformations, anomalies of brain and spinal cord, and provide post-operative care.

We have well-baby nurseries where doctors perform newborn physical screening, communicate with and help parents adjust to their new roles. We are a Baby Friendly Hospital Initiative (BFHI)-certified hospital and our team of doctors, nurses, and lactation consultants are committed to support breastfeeding. We advocate a family-centered approach of care.

Outpatient Services

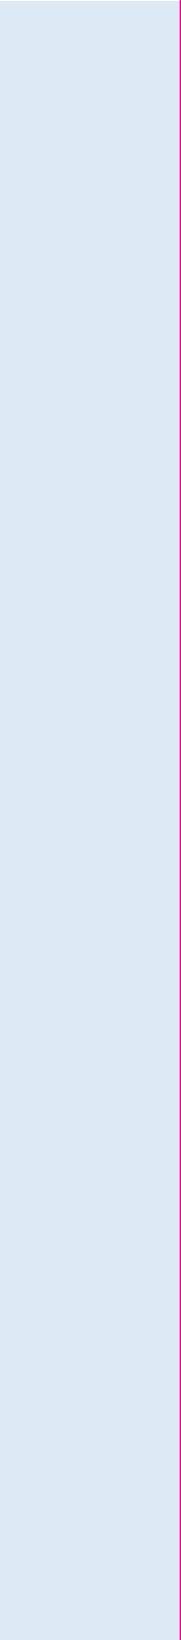

We follow-up newborns who require specialist care, as well as healthy infants and toddlers. This includes monitoring nutrition, growth and development, administering vaccinations and providing parents with anticipatory advice. We also manage many conditions that are seen by general paediatricians. Our multidisciplinary team also cares for high-risk babies who are discharged from the Neonatal Intensive and Special Care Units.

We act as primary care provider for many complex neonatal and pediatrics conditions such as congenital heart diseases, respiratory disorders, neurodevelopmental abnormalities, gastro-intestinal malformations, genitourinary defects. Often, these conditions are co-managed with other paediatricians of different specialties.

Our clinics are located at the Khoo Teck Puat – National University Children’s Medical Institute.

Orthopaedic Surgery

We are a tertiary level referral centre which takes care of disorders of the bones, joints and the musculoskeletal system in both children and adults. With more people getting involved in sporting activities and a rapidly ageing population, the level of injuries and degenerative disorders of bones and joints is set to rise to new highs. We believe that "Movement is Life" and our department is well-equipped with the specialists to help keep you active and healthy.

We are sub-divided into eight Clinical Divisions:

- Foot & Ankle Surgery
- Hip & Knee Surgery
- Musculoskeletal Oncology
- Musculoskeletal Trauma
- Paediatric Orthopaedics
- Shoulder & Elbow Surgery
- Spine Surgery
- Sports Medicine & Surgery

Our surgeons usually sub-specialise in the treatment of surgical conditions in one or two of the sub-specialties. This ensures that they are proficient in their particular field of interest. Our surgeons are supported by a dedicated team of housemen, anaesthetists, nurses, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, pharmacists, social workers, case managers, administrators and other allied health staff who work as a team to ensure quality care for our patients.

Otolaryngology (Ear, Nose & Throat) Head & Neck Surgery

The Department of Otolaryngology (ENT) - Head & Neck Surgery started in June 1987, upon appointment of Professor Yeoh Kian Hian as Chief of Ear, Nose and Throat (ENT) in the National University Hospital. With only a clinical department size of a 1,600 square feet clinic, 3 consulting rooms, a treatment room and an area for basic audiological assessment were opened to the public in January 1988.

Today, our non-subsidised and subsidised clinics are situated at the Medical Centre on Level 15 in the National University Hospital, providing modern facilities for both patients and staff. From a relatively small and unnoticed offshoot of general surgery, the ENT department has grown to become a well-defined and independent discipline.

The department aims to provide clinical care of an international standard, engage in research that benefits Singaporeans and provide effective education to undergraduate and postgraduate students in the field of Otolaryngology Head & Neck Surgery.

Vision

The Department of Otolaryngology (ENT) - Head & Neck Surgery aims to be the Regional Centre of Excellence in the field of Otolaryngology - Head & Neck Surgery in clinical care.

Mission

Our department seeks to provide comprehensive clinical care to every patient with needs in the field of Otolaryngology.

Paediatric Surgery

The Department of Paediatric Surgery manages surgical problems in newborns, infants, toddlers, children and teenagers, up to the age of 18 years old. Our surgical spectrum includes:

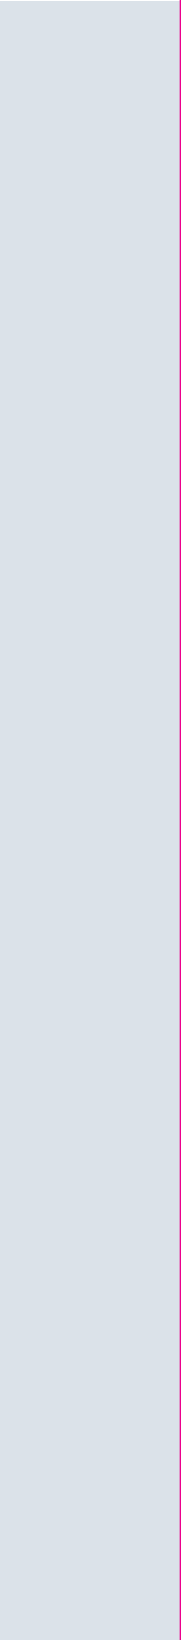

- Congenital abnormalities that occur due to abnormal development in the foetus during pregnancy. These abnormalities may be picked up by the obstetrician during prenatal scans or diagnosed soon after birth. We perform delicate corrective surgeries on newborns which are crucial for their survival.
- Some congenital abnormalities which are not discovered till the child is older. We consult on these conditions and advise on the management options and the timing of surgery, if required.
- Lumps and bumps on various parts of the body and problems with the genitalia and groin in both sexes such as phimosis, undescended testes and scrotal swellings like hernia and hydrocele. These are commonly picked up by the General Practitioner (GP).
- Surgical problems involving:
 - Digestive tract intestines (oesophagus, stomach, small and large intestines)
 - Hepatobiliary and pancreas (liver, bile ducts, gall bladder and pancreas)
 - Chest (lung, airway and thoracic cage)
 - Genitourinary tract (kidneys, ureters, bladder, urethra and external genitalia)
- Management of childhood cancers e.g. Wilm's tumour, Hepatoblastoma, Neuroblastoma, Teratoma, Rhabdomyosarcoma, Leukaemia and Lymphoma
- Paediatric Liver and Kidney transplantation

The Department runs outpatient clinics at the Khoo Teck Puat – National University Children's Medical Institute on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. We also see outpatients on ad-hoc basis should they need to be seen urgently.

For more information on the conditions we see, visit bit.ly/NUHpaedsurgery

Psychological Medicine

The Department of Psychological Medicine, established in September 1979, provides outpatient and inpatient psychiatric clinical care. We also work with and train our community partners in primary mental health. We offer a full suite of services for the young, adult and elderly populations, as well as neuromodulatory treatments such as ECT, rTMS and tDCS. Our academic research faculty and clinicians work to advance the vision of the hospital, as well as that of the NUS Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine, of which we are a part. We provide psychiatric teaching and training for undergraduate and post-graduate students and place a strong emphasis on clinical, research and educational excellence as an important means of advancing knowledge in the field.

The Department of Surgery is led by Professor Krishnakumar Madhavan (Group Director Surgery, NUHS), and has three main focuses: Clinical Services, Research and Innovation, and Education and Training.

The Surgery Clinical Department is made up of teams of medical professionals who provide comprehensive specialised care for surgical conditions such as Breast Surgery, Colorectal Surgery, Hepatobiliary & Pancreatic Surgery, Neurosurgery, Plastic, Reconstructive & Aesthetic Surgery, Thyroid & Endocrine Surgery, Trauma Services and Upper Gastrointestinal Surgery.

The Department of Surgery leverages on technology to provide quality clinical care to our patients. Innovations have led to the performing of the Peroral Endoscopic Myotomy (POEM) as a new cure for Achalasia patients for the first time in Singapore in 2015, as well as pancreas transplant programme and awake craniotomy.

We also believe in the importance of educating our undergraduate students and post-graduate surgical trainees in the optimal management of surgical patients. In 2019, some of our specialists were recognised for their efforts through various teaching awards.

Urology

Led by Associate Professor Edmund Chiong, the Department of Urology focuses on the delivery of specialised care in all major aspects of urology and strives to fulfil our academic mission of research and education.

We provide comprehensive care in a wide range of conditions involving the Genito-urinary system. Our medical professionals sub-specialise in the areas of Urologic Oncology, Endo-urology (including laparoscopy, benign prostate and Urolithiasis services), Andrology (including men's health) and Male Reproductive Medicine, Kidney and Pancreas Transplantation, Reconstructive Urology, Neuro-urology and Functional Urology, Female Urology, as well as Adolescent and Transitional Care Urology. The department routinely leverages technologies such as minimally invasive robotic surgery, robotic prostate biopsy platform, transurethral needle ablative and non-ablative procedures for benign prostate hyperplasia (BPH) and flexible ureteroscopy, to provide quality care and treat patients with complex conditions.

Our department is heavily involved in the medical undergraduate and post-graduate Urology residency training. Our staff also hold key leadership positions and contribute significantly to the Surgery undergraduate programme and national Urology training programme. We are very active in research activities, which include clinical trials, translational research and basic science laboratory work. We also participate in international research collaborations, and are constantly engaged in medical innovations, resulting in a number of patents and commercialisation of devices.

Our Urology Centre, located in the NUH Medical Centre, Level 16, is a comprehensive one-stop centre that performs both outpatient diagnostic and interventional procedures.
